05 – 09 January 2020,

Dubai / United Arab Emirates

Introduction

In general, Key Performance Indicators serve two purposes. KPIs communicate what is important and, what the expected level of performance is. That is why KPI management and selection is critical to executing your strategic plan. Businesses have the advantage of determining performance indicators based on profit or loss. The public sector has no such bottom line.

In the government sector, measurement can be difficult. There may be organizational and political reasons why rigorous measurement is challenging!

On the other hand, recognizing employees through various recognition programs is a fantastic means for increasing happiness. Being appreciated is a basic human feeling and reaps great rewards. Praise and recognition are essential to an outstanding workplace and its employees.

The cost of employee happiness is very minimal in relation to the benefits that will be experienced. Employee happiness programs have been shown to increase productivity, employee loyalty, and increased safety.
