Introduction

Since few of us would get in the car to take a trip without a road map, unless They know how to get where we're going. Every Effective company needs a plan to direct its vision and efforts. The purpose of strategic planning is to encourage thinking about the organization's "big picture"-- its broad goals and priorities, and how well they are being achieved. Unfortunately, the emphasis on possessing a strategic plan has come into some disrepute in recent years since research has revealed that many of them are never implemented and that others prove to be useless in organizations faced with rapidly changing, difficult to predict, environments. Formal planning should be useful for strategic decision making because so much money is spent on it. Some of the companies that use formal planning believe that it improves profits and growth.

Strategic planning serves as a road map to help an organization how to get where it wants to go. The process includes examining strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats, and then planning future operations in a prioritized and realistic manner.
